

Elsa LAURENT

Elsa is a photographer. For six years she worked with dancers for patients in psychiatric hospitals. In 2016, she examines the corpus of images that she has assembled over several years to support this work. She explored the theme of emergence, delving into the shapes that arise from the depths. Since 2017, in visual and sound performances, she has turned her attention to the world of sounds and questions its links with the image. More recently, she has undertaken a new project that considers the body of the musician through the practice of improvisation.
